

Starianna had no surprise

By LEMURIA
September 2, 2024

Starianna's surprise was non-existent on the canvas. Despite messages warning of trouble on September 1, by the end of the day it had not arrived.

Starianna had no special weapon to bring out, no super-CP, no super-spam, nothing.

While there was a wave of chat spam around the time, according to Lemuria's Grafana dashboard, the spam consisted solely of "MothCultLeader -> Me: . Chat cleared."

Someone attempting to impersonate MothCultLeader and ruin there reputation was all it was and ever will be.

Perhaps FP's defenses that day were strong and nobody ever noticed before some manner of unknown system took notice. But FP had advanced warning; and thus there was ample time to prepare.

Arson raids the Discord

By LEMURIA
September 5, 2024

Arson is part of the Warsaw Discord server, linked to BonziWorld, a website that has had interesting relations with OWOT.

However, there's no evidence BonziWorld sent in this account to do the dirty raiding work.

And if they did want to raid, they would have sent in a lot more accounts.

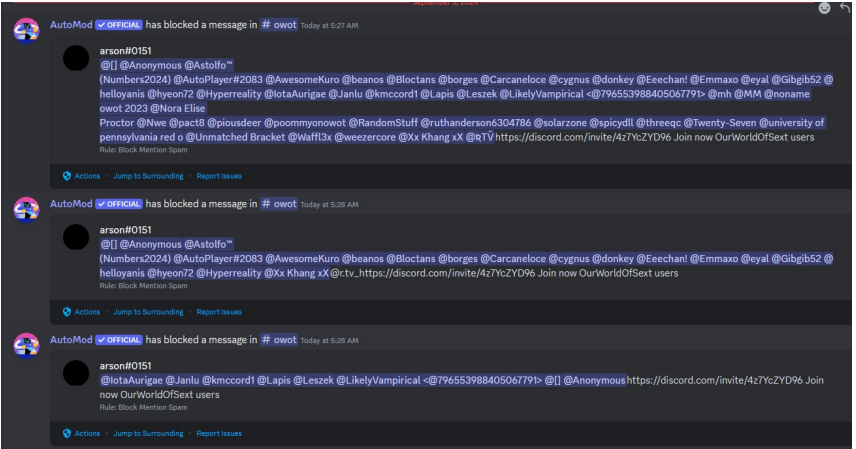

Additionally, their encyclopedia, the BonziPEDIA, blamed "Scientist" for the raid and in the same top article banner said:

"We do not condone the raiding of OWOT in any way, and we never will."

This is the first large-scale Discord server fuckery to take place since the gore raid of November 2023.

Security measures put in place after that gore raid also helped this raid stay relatively minor.

Because images are turned off for new users, there just wasn't an opportunity for gore.

MCL links OWOT and
YWOT with a bridge

By LEMURIA
September 3, 2024

OWOT and YWOT were briefly linked together by Moth Cult Leader, or Ter8, for about 24 hours.

A rare instance of YWOT scripting, their bridge was well-received by people on both of its ends.

An OWOT car script also drove around the center console during the time, with FP praising it for actually cleaning up after itself, unlike other scripts that would require FP to do some revertin'.

Unfortunately the OWOT car may have messed with the bridge, causing some cleanup to fail due to the ratelimits imposed on both sides.

Overall, it was an interesting project though it is unknown how the admins of both sides reacted to what is effectively a canvas bot. MCL is well, quite the interesting human.

On August 31, 2024, Lemuria went outside for lunch, some grass-touching, and oxygen breathing. The mall that he visited was also home to a few cats, pictured above eating lunch. He had a good time there. Photo by Lemuria

Will her one-year hiatus come to an end?

On September 7, 2023, she stopped streaming. Now, it's September 7, 2024. Will she ever come back?

PAGE 2

Griefers vs. northeast
OWOP canvas

The griefers worked to clear the canvas, out of their hate. Some scripting may have been involved but who knows?

PAGE 2

The Dutch Empire is here

Wasn't the East India Company dismantled so long ago? Why is it back on OWOT again?

PAGE 3

Sleepycat always gets unhinged

Several events of multiple types can always transpire out on PinkiePie's unhinged chatroom.

PAGE 3

r/anticats, why do you exist?

CATS ARE ALMIGHTY, AND HUMANITY SHALL SERVE ITS OVERLORDS FOREVER TILL WE PERISH IN ETERNAL SERIVCE.

PAGE 4

Her hiatus reached 1 year. Will she ever come back?

By LEMURIA
September 1, 2024

[STREAMER], an American singer-songwriter who hails from the Pacific Northwest, abandoned the platform, seemingly for good, on September 7, 2023, over one year ago.

Before that terrible day, her streams were lively.

I attended a few of them in early 2023, around February, when I was new to the platform.

Requesting some songs, happily chatting along, and all that fun stuff. Unfortunately, those streams are long gone now.

Since the unfortunate end of her regular streaming activities, she's continued to live her best life across the Pacific Northwest.

There, she's been performing music across a variety of bars and cafes, pleasing audiences with great tunes as they chow down on whatever they happen to be eating.

Regrettably, that music will not make it across the Pacific Ocean to enter and please my ears.

No YouTube recordings exist, nor are there any news articles documenting anything.

The Pacific Ocean is a wondrously large ocean and even the cheapest flight ticket that will put you in a cramped coffin-like seat will cost an arm and a leg. And that's not including the time required to get a visa. Truly, I am stuck on an island.

Her Halcyon Days vlog series provided no clues, no information, no anything on why [STREAMER] stopped streaming.

All there was, was a Discord announcement. "ok this feels so strange to say, but here it is, last stream", were what she uttered on that fateful day back in September.

She's been posting to Instagram every few days or months or so, but that's the extent of her Internet presence. There are no clues that hint towards why she left Twitch, nothing.

I wasn't there on September 7 when she streamed for the last time.

Perhaps it was there she explained why she didn't want to stream anymore; but the VODs of that stream don't exist anywhere.

The reasoning will pretty much be out of reach for the foreseeable future.

The best way to figure it out now is to await her return and ask why on her next stream, but it's clear that isn't going to happen.

Halcyon Days

[STREAMER] has a vlog series known as Halcyon Days. It's not consistent, she posts when she feels like it, which is perfectly reasonable.

It's better than nothing at all, and since the end of her stream, has perhaps been her best connection with the outside world and her former stream audience.

Her most recent video in the series, from January 4, 2024, starts with the following line:

"The old year settled low into the mist and the new is set aglow with fresh promise."

In the 9th episode, she's spoken of a "covent group" that she has attended since July 2023.

Every month, on the new moon, the group meets. [STREAMER] described the group as being such a "wonderful addition" to her life.

The group is comprised primarily of non-binary nature-loving women who "make magic together".

It feels therapeutic to them, she says. 13 group members were visible in one of the scenes within the video, meaning the highest confirmed member count is 14 (this includes [STREAMER] herself).

Nature is pervasive in every piece of the video; her love for it undying, and very much commendable.

Her husband, [STREAMER's HUSBAND], also has a film camera; he takes a photo of her in one of the scenes.

Eventually, the video ends in a clip of her celebrating the new year and just as the clock strikes 2024-01-01 00:00:02 she kisses [STREAMER's HUSBAND].

She did say in the video the clock was two seconds behind.

This entire part acted as a summary of sorts of her 9th vlog video, but it opens your eyes and gives you some background information for the person you're reading about.

Her return to streaming

Still, the reason behind her hiatus remains unknown.

I have not had the balls to ask; or dare reach out to her former regulars who now spend their days in other streams.

Theories range from "burnout", fairly common, "I don't feel as good about streaming anymore", to "these viewers are a burden to me" and its conspiracy theory-level subvariant "I left the site to get away from Lemuria".

While some day she will return to the Purple Site, the site where she can truly be at her best; that day is far into the future.

And even worse, it may never come again; perhaps she's decided to abandon the site for good.

If that is the case, audiences across the world are deprived of another source of good music.

Now, they must fly across the Pacific and ask around bars and cafes, perhaps pore through local publications to see where she'll be performing next.

Takeaways

Take this story as a warning, and as a little piece of wisdom for your life.

Be grateful for the people in your life, whether they be Twitch streamers, close friends, or family members.

You'll never know when you'll suddenly lose access to them.

Cherish every last moment, because you don't know if that recent interaction you had will be the last. It's all finite. We don't live forever.

And if [STREAMER] doesn't want to stream, if she's quit the site for good, remember that there's always more fish in the sea.

There's always another place to have a good time on Twitch. My chat logger, Myokymia, logs around 260+ channels as of writing, and sometimes I add new ones to the list.

And [STREAMER], if you somehow are reading this, if you could recognize the details despite my best efforts to anonymize you, well... I don't know what to say.

Have a great day, and if you do return to streaming, I'll make sure to drop by and make sure I practice what I preach - cherish every moment. And cherish every song request, no matter whether it's a C or a D tuning.

This story was added as OWON filler. Remember, you could have chosen to ignore this story, and yet you read it and decided to get pissed anyway.

It took you multiple clicks to get here; you had to open the OWON thread, open the PDF, then go here and read it while contemplating life.

Emilioe's OWOP ban

By LEMURIA
September 4, 2024

This all happened back on August 29.

Emilioe (Discord: kanserlaft) went to the #report channel of Our World of Pixels to ask why they were banned. They claimed that it was their "lil brother" that "tried to be a troll drawing swastikas or sum thing", though the claim was probably dismissed as bullshit right off the bat.

"A classic", remarked Cygnus. Emilioe continued to ask for an unban, but was eventually refused. Cygnus kept prevailing; saying "you draw nazi shit you wait out the ban"; in this case, the ban was 10 days long.

Perhaps in an attempt to defend themselves, Emilioe further elaborated that their country was "very expensive" and "everyone shares one computer at home".

Even if that were the case, then it was their fault they didn't log off OWOP before leaving the computer or letting someone else use it. It was probably a lie.

More users joined on Cygnus's side; ViolenceDisorder_said "no means no". Unfortunately Emilioe talked back; saying "you are not a mod, you don't have any right to talk about this topic dude".

As it escalated; Cygnus made it clear Emilioe was not getting an early unban; and that continued begging would result in a timeout. It escalated from there into absolute unhinged chaos, before they said they'd just use another device, and that was the last anyone saw of them.

They are no longer in the Discord server; perhaps it escalated a bit too far. And if the ban became permanent, it wouldn't be surprising. It would actually be expected for something like this.

So remember, don't draw swastikas. Nobody likes that 1940s German political party anymore. Anyone who does like them ends up getting disliked by just about everyone else.

Griefers clear northeast OWOP

By LEMURIA
September 5, 2024

A dedicated team of griefers cleared the northeastern portions immediately near OWOP spawn.

Restoration efforts were partial and have not fixed the damage in full yet.

The first signs of trouble came in the #archive channel, where a bot automatically takes hourly screenshots of the canvas and posts it to Discord.

```
[2106]: FREE THE GALSI STRIP FROM ITS KELSENTIAN PARASITES
[2106]: FREE THE GALSI STRIP FROM ITS KELSENTIAN PARASITES
PCUser013: skibidi was funnier
Boldie: true
lime.owot: true
JRT: true
iac1: Okay, fine.
iac1: @error3
```

"Skibidi was funnier", said PCUser013 on September 2, 2024, in response to another Katherine Hessen spam attack. Since then, the Hessen spammer has been observed less and less often. Not much else is known about them.

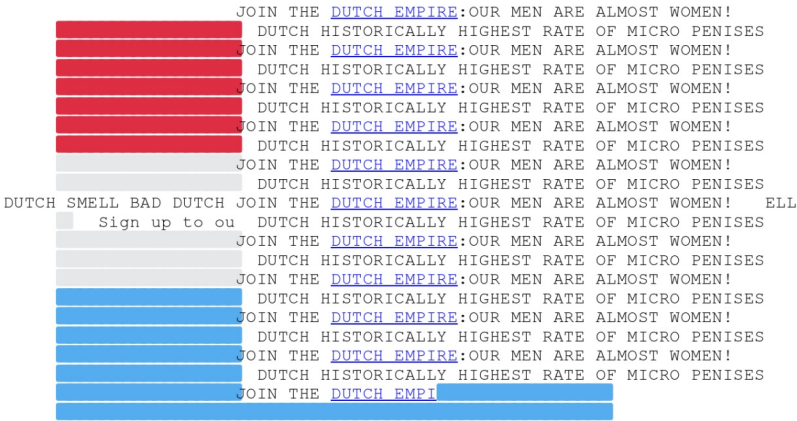

The Dutch Empire returns to OWOT

By LEMURIA

September 6, 2024

The Dutch Empire is back! A group of OWOT users have pasted ads onto the front page calling on people to join the Dutch Empire, saying that "our men are almost women".

So far, two people have joined the Dutch Empire, but the public console at the front appears to have a big black X on top of their advertisements.

Elukera May (lemuria) was a traitor who had the following objectives:
The Syndicate
- Escape to centcomm alive and unrestrained. | Success!
- Steal the Chief Engineer's advanced magboots. | Success!

Space Station 14 can get real unhinged.

Arson's tantrum

Continued from the front page

However, there are still deficiencies; "it's kinda crazy that an european kid can just start spamming the hell out of this server at like 8am".

Notably, in his writing, Andrei misused the indefinite article "an", when "a european" should have been used, due to the way "european" is pronounced including a [j] (or y-sound) at the start.

Meanwhile, Felinepeppermint said the random pinging got people checking the server again.

"yeah, i'm not trying to endorse ping spamming or anything but in a way this was almost beneficial for the server", said Andrei.

D9 returned yet again, saying "lemuria suffered and i did not", in a desperate attempt to repair his huwt feewings, which were damaged by superior Lemurian rhetoric.

Rhetoric that struck again when Lemuria fired back against D9eoad's assumption that a single unwanted ping would annoy him, when as of writing, large-scale lurking in multiple Discord servers, especially with his Nitro giving him 200 slots, had given him 4.8k unresolved pings that he just didn't give a fuck about anymore.

As for the OWOT administration, FP said that he "would take them as seriously as a large gathering of 12 year olds larping as cyber warriors", over private channels, while in the #owot channel, he further said that "some of these ping raids have led to a nonzero number of users leaving the server".

And then reminded people of an incident back in 2021, or 2022, when a chat spammer took advantage of a gateway misconfigured to accept pings and ended up pissing off people at-scale.

"I woke up to thousands of pings.", he said.

Let's just hope something like this never happens again. Not that Starianna wou- wait, OWON shouldn't jinx it.

What's her name? Photo by Miguel Discart

https://commons.wikimedia.org/wiki/File:Cosplay_of_Rarity_from_My_Little_Pony_at_Brussels_Comic_Con_2019_\(46582402894\).jpg.jpg)
CC BY-SA 2.0 "Generic"

[YOUTUBER], and [PERSON WITH FEMALE NAME ON THE INTERNET WHO POSTED A CAT PHOTO].

She has been attached to the right of this paragraph for all our viewing pleasure.

A cat actually asleep

And to end things on a fun note, PinkiePie requested that a sleepy cat be added to the paper. An actual sleepy cat, going to sleep or probably fast asleep.

A perfect fit for Lemuria, since he's gonna go to sleep anyway once this final article is over and then tomorrow publish it to the OWON thread, to Discord, and Sleepycat.

Thank you for reading this week's OWON issue. Support local journalism, and don't let censorship take hold, whether it be from a billionaire or a 15-year old from Romania trying to enforce a monopoly for his inactive news organization.

Sonkiki, CC0 (public domain)
<https://commons.wikimedia.org/wiki/File:Cat-sleeping-curved-up.jpg>

Wt_player getting annoying in Sleepycat

By LEMURIA

September 6, 2024

Sleepycat is always an interesting place. Ran by PinkiePie, one of OWOT's most interesting figures, the chat isn't logged (unfortunately).

Lemuria, the night before OWON Release, visited the site to look for a big scoop, and multiple unhinged things went down.

Wt_player's antics

Wt_player decided to be annoying in the chat today. Elon accused the person of being a pedophile and getting one to send nudes, but we don't have any evidence. PinkiePie simply said "source: trust me bro" so we're very skeptical of this one.

Wt threw around the N-word a couple times, which happens all the time on Sleepycat and hell, even OWOT. It's nothing special anymore, most of OWOT is jaded.

Elon was on the receiving end of Wt's verbal attacks too. "FUCK YOU ELON", he said, interspersed with Lemuria speaking Tagalog and Thiguka while providing highly delayed English translations of what was said.

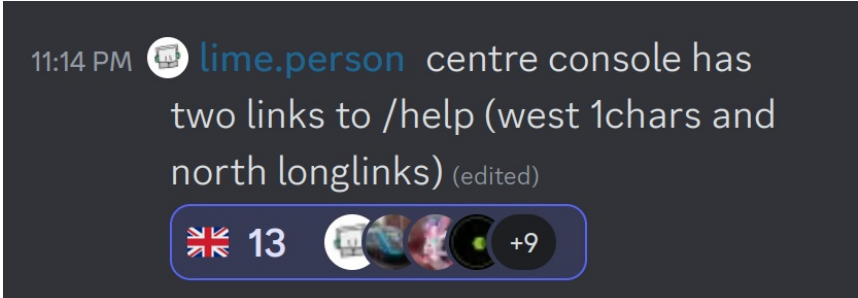

Rarity cosplay girl

The Rarity cosplay girl remains unidentified. Lemuria hasn't bothered to investigate the person in a long while, due to the excessive difficulty involved.

This particular woman had went to Brussels Comic Con in 2019, dressed as Rarity. Long white dress, purple hair, and a plastic unicorn (whatever it's called), the look was put together and complete. And on Day 2, Miguel took a photo.

And Lemuria just going for easier research targets like [STREAMER], [STREAMER 2],

Lime spelled it wrong.

A warning from the:
AMERICAN GRAMMAR & SPELLING POLICE

Lime blocks Lemuria's messages

By LEMURIA

September 3, 2024

The effects of Andrei's one message continue to wreak havoc on Lemuria.

While his OWON thread has stabilized at about 13 readers (since the OWOT Today account and himself don't count), some have taken the drastic step of completely blocking him.

Lemuria discovered this in the evening of September 4, 2024, when attempting to react to a post made by Lime.

He was taken off-guard by the shaking effect Discord displays when you attempt to react to the message of a user who has blocked you.

So far, Lime remains the only one, but this block has only continued to further the feeling of isolation Lemuria experiences.

With less OWON readers and criticism of his way of life mounting, and the elusive promise of a therapy session delayed by financial mishaps and scheduling constraints, it's a miracle Lemuria has continued to put out issues for the paper weekly.

But OWON must go on. It cannot be allowed to die in the face of Andrei's ruthless monopolistic boycott....

Why does r/anticats even exist?

By LEMURIA
September 6, 2024

Browsing the internet, looking for a big scoop to add to OWON or perhaps a cat picture, I find myself on Reddit again, making a sinister discovery.

Now, rSlash is an American Reddit YouTuber who reads Reddit stories everyday, packaging them into a single video. The readings are 100% human, done in his own voice and with his own unique take on things.

One particular day he read r/amithedevil, a subreddit dedicated to reposting stories from other subs where it's clear OP is in the wrong. One of the cross-posts was from r/anticats, and that's how I came to know of its existence.

"Was this post written by a dog?", asked rSlash while reading one post from there, where OP had been predictably whining about cats,

To the surprise of nobody at all, Yagton and the people of the great cat thread she runs are not going to like this.

However, r/anticats isn't that anti-cat enough to endorse actually abusing them; they thankfully have a rule against promoting or endorsing animal abuse.

"Even Evil Has Standards", says that one trope on TVTropes. Anyways, enough of this depressing subreddit. Cats are superior, and they can stay in their little corner of the Internet while the felines take over the rest of the world with humanity's full consent.

Also, Cat is a female nickname too, a shortening of Catherine, so combine that with the cuteness of cats (Felis catus, not Homo sapiens), and well I still like them.

With that out of the way, it's time to put some cats in the empty OWON space on page 4, because the filler is urgently needed as my sleep schedule makes me wake up past 10AM.

Yes, I'm back to sleeping by night and being awake by Filipino day, not the other way around.

The other way around is often more conducive to OWOT because most of the users live in America or Europe.

Now, those paragraphs were more filler. Enough of this, begin the posting of large amounts of cat images on page 4!

Judgefloro, CC0 (public domain)
https://commons.wikimedia.org/wiki/File:6186Pregnant_cats_in_the_Philippines_02.jpg

Derk29, CC BY-SA 4.0
https://commons.wikimedia.org/wiki/File:Ikos_\(upos\).jpg.jpg)

Yes, they have a cat wheel. Photo by the "Chief Fish Cook"

Judgefloro, CC0 (public domain)
https://commons.wikimedia.org/wiki/File:5185Sitting_cats.jpg